Knowlogy Corporation Relocates and Expands Corporate Headquarters in Vienna, Virginia

Vienna, VA – Knowlogy Corporation - a global provider of learning solutions, IT consulting and IT procurement services – has relocated their global headquarters to a new 18,000 ft² facility in Vienna, VA. Knowlogy believes that the move to the more prominent location will provide their clients with expanded services, enhanced support and a convenient location.

“We are very excited to start a new era in the Tysons Corner area,” said Hassan Judeh, President of Knowlogy. “We look forward to building on our successful record of 25 years in Falls Church, where we provided exceptional learning programs and IT support services for our local, regional, and federal government agencies and commercial clients.”

The new office is conveniently located in between the Dulles International Airport and downtown Washington D.C., while also being close to two current Metro stations. In addition, there are plans to have three Metro stops added to the Tysons Corner area by 2013. This area is also home to the largest shopping mall in the tri-state area and stands as the 12th largest employment center in the United States.

The office facilities at this new location will have over 70 staff members with plans to expand to over 100. The site has a training center with five state-of-the-art class rooms, web-hosting facilities and an Innovative Solutions Center for testing and proving novel IT solutions for clients.

“We have made a strategic decision to be in this location. The Tysons Corner area is a known hub for businesses and the addition of new metro locations will only help to expand its reach and reputation,” said Mr. Judeh.
